

Ardsallagh Goats Cheese

A fantastically run family goat farm, with its own production unit and brand, this Goats produce brand is a prime example of the successful artisan Farmer, and we in Fire take pride in supporting them.

The brand began when Jane Murphy of Ardsallagh got goats to help her children's allergies and eczema. The children have memories of goats in the garden for all of their childhoods, but now the farm has grown to a herd of several hundred and all four children are involved in the running of the business.

Furthermore, the health and wellbeing of the animals is a big priority for the Murphy family. Thus, from farm to fork, the Ardsallagh product is a socially responsible product.

This creamy delicious goats' cheese, has huge health benefits and is a favourite of ours, and our customers.
